no preparation of Iron can for a moment be compared with it. Impurities of the blood, de-pression of vital energy, pale and otherwise eickly complexions in licate its necessity in almost every conceivable case. In all cases of female debility (duor nibus, chlorosis, etc.), its effects are delightfully renovating. No remedy has ever been discovered, in the whole history of medicino, which exerts such prompt, happy and fully restorative effects. Good appetite, com plete digestion, rapid acquisition of strength, with an nnusual disposition for active and cheerful exercise, immediately follow its use.

As a grand stomachic and general restrative as a grain signature and general resticative it has no superior and no substitute.

SMAY G. Grain.—We do not recall et to have seed doring our whole agriculineal lives en greaf a destruction of winter small grain as exists this what. No land, however dry and relitive, is exemply in our immediate vicinity; and there is allutted for the trip was three days, but we were a few hours lenger, end, the westber heing favorable, however the hotels must be present without trip was three days, but we were a few hours lenger, end, the westber heing favorable, hotels and the rots of from fifteen to thirty percent, and, from all the information we can get, there is a large portion of our century that is affected in like manner. We have had much folder willers than the present without tripring nor grein fields; and we can eccount for it in no other way than the suddenness of the change form wet to severe oold, freezing the ground while it was completely saturated with wester; thus throwing out ment and with wester; they thought the severe ould, freezing the ground while it was completely saturated with wester; thus throwing out ment and we we are quelicles. The road serving out the severe ould, freezing the ground while it was completely saturated with wester; thus throwing out ment and severe in the manner. The road of the change form wet to severe oold, freezing the ground while it was completely saturated with wester; they throw well and the severe in the ancient city were than the present without tripring nor grein fields; therefore along the ground and can first account of the second three observations in Rome, which place we left en the observations in Rome, which place we left en the observations in Rome, which place we left en the observations in Rome, which place we left en the observations in Rome, which place we left en the observations in Rome, which place and hard round for rapides and large portion of the rate of from effects withing our entire party of the end all the baggago. The time of each trip was and large portion of for the trip was three days. We be at twn good curriages, accumulating rated with weier; thus throwing out runt and branch a large portion of the grain. At the same time, we deeply regret to sid, it made a presty elean sweep of all the peeches in this section and of additional interest is to be seen by it. The time cocupied in going to the point we were at was about three bours, and it took us two more bours to get back to our carriages. The path for much of the way is ever the hard lava, and the roughest riding that I ever undertook. I think a good daguerreotype of the entire party (the ladies generally without hoops) would be considered a good investment at $100! Itut it was n dny long to be remembered by us all. To-dny we all went to Putcoli (nuw celled Puzzoli;) where the Apostlo Paul lauded and was desired by the brethren to tarry for seven days. (See Acts xxviii) litere, and a few serun days. and the dignitaries got out and walked into the church, all heads being uncovered. We fullowed and found the interior of the building richly decurated for the occasion. The services wern highly imposing and embraced a procession of all this array of the nobility, in their gorgeous neparel, each carrying a lighted wax candle about four leet long. The church is in the form of a rotundn, and they marched around the outer edge of the floor, netrong guard being statioued all around. The music was extremely animating, and in some respects the dis-play excelled that at St. Peter's on Christmas morning, but as yet we have not found out the special reason for it all. But I am at the end of my sheet and must close.
